

Mobile Modular Workbenches

Mobile modular workbenches offer an ideal way for employees to remain productive, while keeping their distance. Benches can be outfitted with air hoses, peg boards, or parts bins, making the possible configurations nearly limitless. This ensures that all necessary parts and equipment are all in close proximity and easily accessible, eliminating the need to walk around the facility searching for supplies.

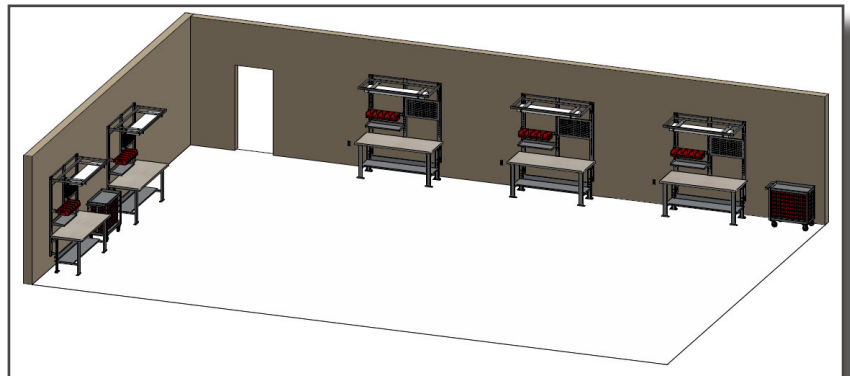

Casters can be added to benches for added mobility to space them further apart throughout your facility, and partitions can be placed between them for added protection.
